“ Bro Floyd was to be the pastor at my funeral. I really miss hearing him preach since I moved away from Wells Chapel. He will always be remembered by me as a special person and a real preacher for the Lord. He didn't mince words nor did he worry about stepping on toes. He preached the Word the way it should be preached. Martha, you are in my prayers. God Bless and keep you through this trying time. Bro Floyd is much better off than we are.

“ Bald hill....Scouts....the old school buses....swinging on the vines across the gulley behind Ma-maws....gathering her eggs in the barn loft and runnin' off and leaving Jeff and he wouldn't come down because of the cows....sneakin' a cold cat-head buiscuit off the stove and pullin' up a green onion out of the garden to eat, Ma-maw's tea was so sweet it was like pourin' syrup out of the pitcher....Uncle Floyd playin' with out feet, pullin' our shoes off and sayin', "You know I luv U!". Just some of the stuff us kids used to do, but spending the night with Aunt Rae and Uncle Floyd was the best! We'd try to get channel 9 to watch Friday Night Videos or the late movie with rabbit ears. Aunt Rae was always good to us, made us feel at home, and Uncle Floyd was such fun, you could hear him laugh up and down the holler both. Renea got a new stereo with money she made workin' in the factories in the summer and had a Conway & Loretta 8-track she played over and over. Uncle Floyd was tired of hearin' it and told us to turn it off. Renea said, "Well it sounds better than that old screamin' Kitty Wells!" William got Donna's black go-go boots and wore them in the mud, Jimmy always ran in a lope like a kangaroo. "Aunt Martha Rae! William's got a hunk a paper in his mouth!" We never thought we'd be grown, look at us now. Things like this keep us goin', remembering how much fun we did have...and he always scared us with tales of "haginab!" When him and Daddy got together there was no quietness, it was always loud! Yall came to Memphis and we went to the zoo, and one time we rode bicycles to the store and Donna and me had a wreck and she broke her arm....stuff we'll never forget.....ever! Love yall!!!!

“ Martha Ray and all the family i am so sorry for your loss. Bro Floyd was a special person that loved everyone he came in contact with. Even though we didn't see each other very often when you did see him he always let you know how much he loved you and was proud to be related. Life is so short and so uncertain may we always been mindful of each other in our prayers. Love you all Teresa
