“Jan was one of the special people I got to know in Ripley. When I walked into Next to New she did not know who I was until she heard my voice. That was because she had poor eyesight. I was always glad to give her items from my home that I wanted to get rid of. I did not want payment for them. She finally agreed not to fuss with me and say that if I had things with higher value to them that she would sell those for me and she got used to me just bringing her little stuff I wanted to give her. Thus I have missed Jan during her illness and I am sad to say farewell. She will live on as do other friends of mine who have "passed to the other side."
